

Association of Accredited Small Business Consultants

The Association of Accredited Small Business Consultants is an international association that was formed in response to the impact privately owned, small businesses have on the global economy. The Association recognizes that there is both a growing need and lack of individuals qualified to consult with small businesses at affordable rates. The AASBC's sole purpose is to provide training, educational materials, and practice aides specifically designed to enhance consulting in the field of small business and provide members with tools to increase their clients' value and profitability through achievable improvements in planning and operations.

The Accredited Small Business Consultant (ASBC) and the Master Accredited Small Business Consultant (Master ASBC) accreditations are awarded by the AASBC to members who have demonstrated proficiency in small business consulting through education and the successful passing of a certification exam. There are, also, experience requirements necessary to qualify for the Master ASBC certification.

Our Mission

The Association of Accredited Small Business Consultants exists to support and enhance expertise in the area of small business consulting. Inspired by the dynamic role of small businesses in the domestic and global economy, the Association is committed to advancing the knowledge and success of small businesses by providing quality educational materials at reasonable costs to its members.
